VERIFIED COMPLAINT
(JURY TRIAL IS DEMANDED)

Comes now Plaintiff, Ronaldo Designer Jewelry Inc., by counsel, and for its cause of action against Defendants, James B. Cox and Catherine A. Cox d/b/a JC Designs d/b/a Wire N Rings and John Does Numbers 1 through 99, states as its Complaint, the following:

INTRODUCTION

1. This is a Complaint for injunctive relief and for civil damages. Count I states a claim for Copyright Infringement pursuant to 17 U.S.C. §101 et seq. by and through Defendants' unlawful copying, reproduction, manufacture, importation, distribution, sale and use of Plaintiff's copyrighted works in Defendants' products which they market and sell to the public; Count II states a claim for Trade Dress Infringement and Unfair Trade Practices and Unfair Competition pursuant to the Lanham Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1125(a), by and through Defendants' use of Plaintiff's trade dress, Defendants' false representations, and Defendants' other acts which lead and will in the future lead the public, through mistake or deception, to believe that Defendants' competing, inferior products are authorized or sponsored by or originate with or are otherwise associated with the Plaintiff; and Count III states a claim for Common Law Unfair Trade Practices and Unfair Competition.

2. Plaintiff Ronaldo Designer Jewelry, Inc. (“Ronaldo”) is a Kentucky corporation with its principal place of business located at 115 East Spring Street, Suite 102, New Albany, Indiana 47150.

3. a. Upon information and belief, Defendant James B. Cox is a resident of Arkansas doing business as JC Designs and/or Wire N Rings (“JC”) in Mississippi (including committing the infringing acts described herein), and has a principal place of business at 18 Faisan Way, Hot Springs, Arkansas 71909. James B. Cox may be served with process at 18 Faisan Way, Hot Springs, Arkansas 71909.

b. Upon information and belief, Defendant Catherine A. Cox is a resident of Arkansas doing business as JC Designs and/or Wire N Rings (“JC”) in Mississippi (including committing the infringing acts described herein), and has a principal place of business at 18 Faisan Way, Hot Springs, Arkansas 71909. Catherine A. Cox may be served with process at 18 Faisan Way, Hot Springs, Arkansas 71909.

c. Upon information and belief, Defendant John Doe, a/k/a Leroy, is an employee, agent, or representative of JC, doing business in Mississippi (including the infringing acts described herein) most recently at the Tupelo Flea Market and Craft Show held November 25-27, 2016, which is located within this federal judicial district. The true identify of John Doe, a/k/a Leroy, is yet unknown to Plaintiff, but said Defendant, John Doe, a/k/a Leroy, was exhibiting and selling infringing works at the Tupelo Flea Market and Craft Show, and upon information and belief, has represented or been otherwise engaged by Defendants at other regional jewelry trade shows outside of this federal judicial district.

d. John Does Nos. 1 through 99 are fictitious names for Defendant persons or business entities which have reproduced, manufactured, copied, imported, distributed, displayed, and sold the infringing works that comprise the subject of this Complaint, for or on behalf of the Defendants named in numerical paragraphs 3(a), 3(b), and 3(c) above, or in concert or privity with them, including said Defendants' manufacturers, importers, distributors, brokers, and vendors, and for Defendants' persons, including corporate officers, directors, managers, operators, representatives, and agents, or business entities having the right to supervise the infringing activities, or having a financial interest therein. The true identities of these Defendants are yet unknown to Plaintiff.

4. At all times relevant herein, Defendants were variously engaged in the business of manufacturing, reproducing, marketing, promoting, importing, distributing, displaying, and selling, among other things, metal jewelry, merchandise, and materials embodying and otherwise incorporating the infringing works that comprise the subject of this lawsuit.

5. Defendants have offered the products that are the subject of this dispute for sale in interstate commerce, including, upon information and belief, to stores or individuals in the Northern District of Mississippi, as well as in other retail outlets in other states.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

6. Jurisdiction is possessed by this Court pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1331, and 28 U.S.C. §1338 as the Complaint alleges violations of federal Copyright Law and the Lanham Act. This Court has jurisdiction over the claim for common law unfair trade practices and unfair competition herein pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§1338(b) and 1367, and under the doctrine of supplemental jurisdiction, since these claims are joined with substantial and related claims under the Copyright Laws and Lanham Act Laws of the United States. Additionally and alternatively, this Court has original diversity jurisdiction over this controversy pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1332(a)(1), as the parties are residents of different states and the amount in controversy is in excess of $75,000, exclusive of interest and costs.

7. Venue in the Northern District of Mississippi is proper under 28 U.S.C. §§1391(b) and 1400(a) because a substantial part of the events giving rise to these claims arose within the Northern District of Mississippi, which is sufficient for jurisdiction under Mississippi's Long-Arm Statute, and Defendant has transacted business and committed its infringing and tortious acts within Mississippi. In this regard, upon information and belief, Defendants are and at all relevant times have been marketing and selling goods, including, upon information and belief, the infringing works that are the subject of this lawsuit, directly and indirectly to individuals and entities residing and transacting business in the Northern District of Mississippi, including, without limitation, through sales at the Tupelo Flea Market and Craft Show in Tupelo, Mississippi. Upon information and belief, Defendants are and at all relevant times have additionally been advertising and selling goods indirectly over the Internet (see <http://www.shopjcdesigns.com>) to residents of the Northern District of Mississippi who can access said goods through that electronic medium.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND AND FACTS

8. Beginning in or about 1991, Plaintiff, initially through its predecessor in interest, developed its line of distinctive handmade jewelry associated with its registered THE RONALDO COLLECTION® and its common law RONALDO marks.

9. Plaintiff's jewelry designs are characterized by a consistent combination of design features that give the Ronaldo jewelry line a distinctive look that is immediately identifiable and serves to associate the source of the jewelry works with Plaintiff and its brand.

10. The consistent design features of the Ronaldo jewelry line give each bracelet common features and enhance the compatibility and collectability of the jewelry creations, such that they can be worn together to create a wrist wrapping stack of bracelets that, while different, have an overall consistency in look and feel.

11. The design features which comprise the trade dress of Plaintiff's jewelry works include a combination of square, diamond and round cut 18-20 gauge gold artist's wire and sterling silver wire, which when used in a twisted form has approximately 8-10 twists per inch and use 18 gauge half round wrap to form the hook clasps. The clasps have the distinctive, signature shape of a house, having at least six equal horizontal wraps and then wraps that taper to a point, like the roof of a house, to meet the hook and eye sides of the closure (depicted in the artist rendering below and incorporated by reference herein as Exhibit A);

Bracelets that feature gemstones or pearls incorporate stones and pearls that are 5-6 millimeters in size, and are set in the bracelet using a distinctive "window" frame for each stone or pearl; four wire wraps flank the windows with two wraps in between each pearl or stone. Bracelets which incorporate flat stones or bugle bead stones use stones that are 4 by 13 millimeters. Pattern bar bracelets feature a flat pattern bar bordered by a square and twisted signature gold and/or silver wire wrap, with five sets of wraps, each three wraps around. By using gold and silver wire and stones and/or pearls of similar dimensions and consistent number of wraps to frame jewels and embellish pattern bars, all Ronaldo bracelets share a recognizable look that identifies their source. These design features (referred to herein as Plaintiff's "Trade Dress") are not essential to the function of the jewelry, nor are they essential to the cost, quality, or manufacturing thereof, which it sells and markets in interstate commerce.

12. Ronaldo's jewelry designs and Trade Dress have been promoted in over 50,000 catalogs, featured in Who's Who in America, promoted extensively on the Internet, through Ronaldo's website, and including, but not limited to, a total exposure of at least 1.4 million on Facebook. Ronaldo's jewelry designs are displayed in many trade shows across the country including, but not limited to, the Transworld Exhibits in Chicago and Dallas, Helen Brett Trade Shows in Memphis and New Orleans, the Atlanta Gift and Home Furnishings Market, the Atlanta Jewelry Show, JA New York Shows, AccessoriesTheShow in New York City, New York NOW in New York City, the Dallas Total Home and Gift Show, the Norton Shows (Apparel, Jewelry, and Gifts) in Gatlinburg, Tennessee, the International Gem and Jewelry Show (Intergem) in Rockford, Illinois, and many others and at the Oscars, the Emmys, the Grammy's, the Country Music Association, Golden Globe Awards, and MTV Movie Awards celebrity gift rooms. Ronaldo has provided contestant and celebrity gifting for many national television shows including, without limitation, The Voice, Hollywood Game Night, Entertainment Tonight, The Bachelorette, and The Price Is Right, all of said shows providing national audience exposure to the Ronaldo jewelry and also closing credits recognition for the Ronaldo brand. Ronaldo advertises its jewelry on radio spots, billboards, and numerous social media platforms and magazines. Through Ronaldo's extensive sales and marketing efforts over nearly two decades, wholesale and retail consumers of Ronaldo's line of distinctive bracelets recognize the overall look and feel of Plaintiff's Trade Dress as being associated solely with and emanating solely from a single source, namely Ronaldo.

13. Upon information and belief, at the time Plaintiff entered the jewelry market in or around 1991, Plaintiff was the first to produce a line of jewelry that incorporates the Trade Dress described herein, and remained the exclusive producer of such products and the exclusive user of its distinctive Trade Dress until approximately 2012 when companies, such as JC, among others, began plagiarizing Plaintiff's Trade Dress and designs.

14. Plaintiff vigilantly polices the market for infringements of its copyrights, trademarks, and Trade Dress, and through litigation and cease and desist letters has been successful in stopping numerous infringements.

COUNT I

COPYRIGHT INFRINGEMENT

15. Plaintiff repeats and realleges the allegations contained in Paragraphs 1 through 14 herein as though fully set forth.

16. At all times relevant herein, Plaintiff was variously engaged in the business of manufacturing, marketing, distributing, and selling decorative jewelry and accessories.

17. In or about 2000, Plaintiff, through its predecessor in interest, created its work known as "THE LOVE KNOT," which is a decorative bracelet, a photograph of which is reproduced below and incorporated herein by reference as Exhibit B. (This item and the items displayed in Exhibits F and I are collectively referred to herein as "Plaintiff's Works.")

18. Thereafter, Plaintiff learned that Defendants have been copying, reproducing, manufacturing, importing, distributing, displaying, marketing, and selling metal bracelets under the name Bonita which are substantially similar to the protected Work of Plaintiff referenced above, a photograph of which is reproduced below, and incorporated herein by reference as Exhibit C. (This item and the items displayed in Exhibits G, J, and M are collectively referenced herein as the “Infringing Merchandise.”)

19. Plaintiff has been and is the sole proprietor of all right, title, and interest, including copyright, in and to the “THE LOVE KNOT” Work.

20. Plaintiff, through its predecessor in interest, received from the United States Copyright Office Certificate of Registration VA 1-220-847, for the “The Ronaldo Collection” website in which the “THE LOVE KNOT” Work is depicted, having an Effective Registration Date of December 7, 2001, which Certificate (including the assignment thereof) which is attached hereto and incorporated herein by reference as Exhibit D.

21. Plaintiff received from the United States Copyright Office Certificate of Registration VA 1-815-649, for the “THE LOVE KNOT and ‘ROMANCE CARD’ Package Insert" Work, having an Effective Registration Date of April 20, 2012, which Certificate is attached hereto and incorporated herein by reference as Exhibit E.

22. In or about 2000, Ronaldo, through its predecessor in interest, created its work known as "The Angelina Bracelet," which is a decorative bracelet, a photograph of which is reproduced below and incorporated herein by reference as Exhibit F.

23. Thereafter, Ronaldo learned that Defendants have been copying, reproducing, manufacturing, importing, distributing, displaying, marketing, and selling metal bracelets under the name Andrea which are substantially similar to the protected "The Angelina Bracelet" Work of Ronaldo referenced above. A photograph of the infringing bracelet is reproduced below and incorporated herein by reference as Exhibit G.

24. Ronaldo has been and is the sole proprietor of all right, title, and interest, including copyright, in and to the "The Angelina Bracelet" Work.

25. Ronaldo received from the United States Copyright Office Certificate of Registration VA 1-858-093, for the “The Angelina Bracelet” Work, having an Effective Registration Date of April 30, 2013, which Certificate is attached hereto and incorporated herein by reference as Exhibit H.

26. In or about 2014, Ronaldo created its work known as “Name This Bracelet,” (now known as “The Hero Bracelet”) which is a decorative bracelet, a photograph of which is reproduced below and incorporated herein by reference as Exhibit I.

27. Thereafter, Ronaldo learned that Defendant has been copying, reproducing, manufacturing, importing, distributing, displaying, marketing, and selling metal bracelets under the name Andrea which are substantially similar to the protected “Name This Bracelet” Work of Ronaldo referenced above. A photograph of the infringing bracelet is reproduced below and incorporated herein by reference as Exhibit J.

28. Ronaldo has been and is the sole proprietor of all right, title, and interest, including copyright, in and to the "Name This Bracelet" Work.

29. Ronaldo received from the United States Copyright Office Certificate of Registration VAu 1-183-067, for the "Name This Bracelet" Work, having an Effective Registration Date of September 10, 2014, which Certificate is attached hereto and incorporated herein by reference as Exhibit K.

30. Defendants individually, or by and through their agents, employees, and representatives, with notice of Plaintiff's right, title, and interest in and to Plaintiff's Works, and without Plaintiff's authorization, have had access to Plaintiff's Works through their wide dissemination in the marketplace and used Plaintiff's Works to manufacture, reproduce, copy, publish, display, distribute, transmit, sell, and otherwise market their Infringing Merchandise via Facebook, direct sales, and other methods. Selected JC Designs Facebook pages are attached hereto as Exhibit L.

31. Upon information and belief, Defendants willfully and deliberately infringed said Plaintiff's copyrights by copying Plaintiff's Works, and manufacturing, reproducing, importing, publishing, displaying, distributing, transmitting, selling, or otherwise placing on the market

Defendants' Infringing Merchandise and, thus, using Plaintiff's Works without authorization, all to Plaintiff's detriment.

32. Upon information and belief, Defendants have copied, manufactured, reproduced, imported, published, displayed, distributed, transmitted, marketed, promoted, and sold the Infringing Merchandise and will, unless restrained, continue to do so in the future.

33. Defendants' infringement of Plaintiff's copyrights has caused and will continue to cause immediate and irreparable harm to Plaintiff unless enjoined by this Court.

COUNT II

TRADE DRESS INFRINGEMENT AND UNFAIR COMPETITION PURSUANT TO THE LANHAM ACT

34. Plaintiff repeats and realleges the allegations contained in Paragraphs 1 through 33 herein as though fully set forth.

35. Plaintiff's Trade Dress is embodied in its jewelry design works, including but not limited to Plaintiff's Works (collectively "Plaintiff's Line of Works"). Plaintiff is the owner of all right, title, and interest in and to its Trade Dress and has not licensed or otherwise authorized Defendants to reproduce, manufacture, import, display, market, sell, or distribute Plaintiff's Line of Works or any derivative work or to reproduce, publish, display, distribute, transmit, or otherwise use Plaintiff's Trade Dress, including without limitation in the marketing of the Infringing Merchandise.

36. Defendants are reproducing, manufacturing, importing, displaying, marketing, and distributing works, including without limitation the Infringing Merchandise (including without limitation the merchandise depicted in Exhibits C, G, and J referenced above and the merchandise depicted in the photographs which are reproduced below and incorporated collectively herein by reference as Exhibit M), which infringe Plaintiff's Trade Dress.

37. Plaintiff's Trade Dress, including the design, appearance, styling, look, and feel of Plaintiff's Line of Works, which include but are not limited to the design elements described above, individually or in combination, are unique, arbitrary, non-functional, and inherently distinctive. The inherent distinctiveness of Plaintiff's Line of Works is used and understood to identify Plaintiff's brand, to distinguish Plaintiff's goods from those manufactured or sold by others, and to indicate the source and origin of these goods.

38. Plaintiff's Trade Dress, including the design, appearance, styling, look and feel of Plaintiff's Line of Works, which includes but is not limited to the design elements described above, individually or in combination, which elements are not essential to the use of the product, could be replaced by other alternative design features without affecting the functionality of the product, do not materially affect the cost of the product, and create no significant non-reputation related disadvantage to competitors.

39. For over two decades, Plaintiff and its predecessor in interest have extensively advertised and promoted its distinctive jewelry designs, and Trade Dress and expended great time, effort, and millions of dollars in connection therewith. Plaintiff promotes its jewelry line in catalogs, trade shows, markets, trade publications, and on the Internet. Through these marketing devices, Plaintiff presents the consistent overall design, configuration and construction, and overall image and appearance of its Line of Works as a source-identifying symbol of jewelry produced by and originating from a single source, namely Plaintiff.

40. As a result of Plaintiff's substantial, continuous, and extensive advertising, promotion, and sales, the Trade Dress of its Ronaldo jewelry line has acquired secondary meaning so that it identifies Plaintiff's goods, and distinguishes them from goods manufactured by others. The Trade Dress has acquired source-identifying meaning and valuable goodwill, all of which operates for the benefit of Plaintiff. Plaintiff's Trade Dress is widely and favorably accepted and recognized as identifying Plaintiff and its goods, or at least the goods of a single source, albeit an anonymous one.

41. Defendants' infringement of Plaintiff's Trade Dress is intentional.

42. Defendants have, through their infringement of Plaintiff's Line of Works and Trade Dress, and the other conduct described above, engaged in unfair and deceptive trade practices and unfair competition in violation of Section 43(a) of the Lanham Act.

43. Upon information and belief, Defendants have been reproducing, copying, distributing, importing, promoting, advertising, and otherwise placing on the market in interstate commerce merchandise which infringes Plaintiff's Trade Dress, including without limitation the Infringing Merchandise, since at least as early as July of 2016, and have willfully and deliberately sought to benefit from, and to trade upon, the good works, good name, good reputation and goodwill of Plaintiff, and upon Plaintiff's Line of Works and Trade Dress, all to Plaintiff's damage and detriment.

44. Defendants' commercial advertising, promotion, and use of Plaintiff's Line of Works and Trade Dress, alone or in combination with Plaintiff's other intangible property and assets, constitutes a false designation of origin, palming off, and unfair competition that is likely to deceive, and that has in fact deceived, actual and potential customers into believing that the infringing goods of Defendants, including without limitation the Infringing Merchandise, originate with Plaintiff, or are made by Plaintiff, or are rendered by Defendants as authorized agents of, or in association or affiliation with or under the sponsorship of Plaintiff. As a result of this false designation of origin, palming off, and unfair competition, Plaintiff's base of customers and its ability to build upon said base has been diverted from Plaintiff.

45. The infringing goods of Defendants, including without limitation the Infringing Merchandise, are unauthorized, inferior reproductions of Plaintiff's Line of Works and infringe upon Plaintiff's Trade Dress and its other intellectual property and proprietary rights.

46. Cheap copies of Plaintiff's most popular lines are saturating the market, unfairly competing with Plaintiff's quality goods and depressing to the point of near eradication the demand for Plaintiff's more expensive products.

47. Plaintiff has no control over the quality or craftsmanship of the infringing goods of Defendants, including without limitation the Infringing Merchandise, or the use of Plaintiff's Line of Works or Trade Dress by Defendants. Defendants' failure to produce jewelry evincing the quality of Plaintiff's jewelry, including but not limited to Plaintiff's Line of Works, as well as any other failure, neglect, or default by Defendants in conjunction with the manufacture, distribution, sale, marketing, and customer service of the infringing goods of Defendants, including without limitation the Infringing Merchandise, in association with (but without authorization) Plaintiff's Line of Works and Trade Dress will reflect adversely on Plaintiff as the perceived provider thereof, and will thus hamper Plaintiff's efforts to protect its outstanding reputation for high quality in design, metalwork, aesthetics, composition, and construction that represent the reputation and goodwill of Plaintiff's distinctive handcrafted jewelry lines. This has resulted and will continue to result in lost business and damage to Plaintiff's reputation and goodwill.

48. Defendants' intentional and willful infringement of Plaintiff's Line of Works and Trade Dress, false designation of origin, palming off, and unfair competition has caused and will continue to cause immediate and irreparable harm to Plaintiff unless enjoined by this Court.

COUNT III

UNFAIR TRADE PRACTICES AND UNFAIR COMPETITION

49. Plaintiff repeats and realleges the allegations contained in Paragraphs 1 through 48 herein as though fully set forth.

50. Defendants have, through the conduct described above, engaged in unfair trade practices and unfair competition.

51. Upon information and belief, Defendants have been reproducing, copying, distributing, and otherwise placing on the market infringing goods including, without limitation, the Infringing Merchandise, since at least as early as July, 2016, and engaging in the above-mentioned conduct with the intent to misappropriate the labors and expenditures of Plaintiff and confuse or deceive purchasers as to the source or origin of the infringing goods, including without limitation the Infringing Merchandise, for Defendants' own unfair profit.

52. Defendants' conduct is likely to cause confusion or deceive purchasers of the infringing goods, including without limitation the Infringing Merchandise, as to the source or origin thereof and upon information and belief, has caused such confusion and deception.

53. Defendants have willfully and deliberately sought to benefit from, and to trade upon, the good works, good name, and good reputation of Plaintiff, all to Plaintiff's financial damage and detriment, including by injuring and impairing the goodwill and reputation of Plaintiff in excess of any jurisdictional minimum of this Court.

54. Defendants' unfair trade practices and unfair competition will continue unless enjoined by this Court.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiff demands as follows:

1. That a temporary restraining order and permanent injunction be issued restraining Defendants, their agents, servants, employees, successors, assigns, and all others in concert or privity with them from infringing Plaintiff's Works and from manufacturing, reproducing, importing, publishing, displaying, distributing, transmitting, selling, or otherwise placing on the market the Infringing Merchandise and, thus, using Plaintiff's Works without authorization;

2. That a temporary restraining order and permanent injunction be issued restraining Defendants, their agents, servants, employees, successors, assigns, and all others in concert or privity with them from infringing Plaintiff's Trade Dress, whether in connection with the Infringing Merchandise or otherwise, without authorization;
3. That a temporary restraining order and permanent injunction be issued restraining Defendants, their agents, servants, employees, successors, assigns, and all others in concert or privity with them from engaging in the unfair competition and deceptive trade practices described above;
4. That Defendants be required to account to Plaintiff for Defendants' profits and the actual damages suffered by Plaintiff as a result of Defendants' infringement;
5. That Defendants be ordered to surrender to Plaintiff all property, tangible and intangible including, but not limited to all goods, merchandise and materials which infringe upon Plaintiff's Works or Plaintiff's Trade Dress, and all tooling, templates, patterns, or other means and media used by Defendants to copy, manufacture, reproduce, publish, display, distribute, transmit, market, promote, license, and sell any infringing goods including, without limitation, Defendants' Infringing Merchandise;
6. That Plaintiff be awarded actual damages and profits or statutory damages against Defendants, in an amount to be determined, subject to Plaintiff's election with respect thereto;
7. That Defendants be required to pay treble damages for their violations of the Lanham Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1125, or such other applicable law;
8. That Defendants be compelled to pay Plaintiff's costs and attorney fees incurred in connection with this action;
9. Trial by jury of all issues so triable; and

10. All other and further relief to which Plaintiff may otherwise be entitled.

The Ronaldo Collection™ Gemstone Information & Lore

What's in a Name?

Genuine Precious and Semi-Precious Gemstones:

Gemstones come in a wide range of colors, much like a rainbow. They occur naturally from the earth, and have been around since the beginning of time. They have captured the imaginations and desires of men and women for ages. The pursuit of gems has been the subject of legends, fairy tales, and lore. The information provided here was taken from many sources; encyclopedias and gemologists, to those who believe that gems contain "healing powers". The information in this portion of the web site has been provided for you for informational purposes only. Many people do believe in the healing powers of gemstones, it's up to the reader to decide whether or not they believe in their powers.

Generally speaking, a gemstone is a stone that is beautiful, rare, and durable (resistant to abrasion, fracturing and chemical reactions). Common gemstones such as agate are given a semi-precious status. All are minerals of some kind. Most gems are silicates, which can be very stable, hard minerals. A few gems are oxides and only one gem, diamond, is composed of a single element, carbon. There are also a few gemstones that are not true minerals, but are included here: opal and amber. All gems have some characteristics falling short of perfection though; even the seemingly perfect diamond has flaws.

Synthetic or Laboratory Grown:

Carroll Chatham revolutionized the jewelry industry in 1938 with a remarkable discovery: the secret to growing emeralds in a laboratory. His emeralds were not simular or imitations, but gemstones possessing the same properties (chemistry, optics, crystal structure) as emeralds occurring in nature. The process duplicates conditions within the earth where gem crystals grow. Creating gemstones in a lab is a time-consuming complex process that duplicates the heat and pressurized conditions of gemstones that occur naturally.

For many years, appropriate technology for laboratory grown—or synthetic—stones has been discussed among gemologists and jewelry retailers. Laboratory gemologists use the term synthetic because the stones are grown in a cultured environment, and that term has been used for quite some time within the jewelry industry.

As the gemstone business grows and evolves, retailers are discovering that their customers want to know more about the gemstones they purchase. A move toward openness and disclosure is apparent at every level of the industry, and the shared knowledge promotes greater acceptance of synthetic; or laboratory grown, stones.

The term laboratory grown evokes a more attractive image to the jewelry-buying customer, and is less difficult to explain than the term synthetic, even though they are both the same thing. We have elected to use the term laboratory grown instead of synthetic, because it describes what actually happens, the stones are grown in a laboratory environment.

Simulated Stone:

A simulated gemstone can be any material that takes on the appearance of a genuine stone. Even obvious imitations such as glass or plastic can be accurately described as simulated stones. However, glass and Plastic are soft compared to laboratory grown gem material, and therefore don't wear as well or take as high a polish.

Genuine Precious Gemstones

Amethyst

Amethyst is the best known and most valuable form of quartz. Its name is derived from the Greek amethystos (not drunken); ancient belief held that anyone wearing an amethyst could not become intoxicated.

According to Greek legend, Bacchus, the god of wine, created this beautiful purple stone. To avenge an insult, he vowed to have a tiger devour the first person he met. That person happened to be a beautiful young maiden named Amethyst. The maiden cried out for the goddess Diana to save her and was turned into a brilliant white crystal. When he saw what he had done, Bacchus was full of remorse. He poured wine over the stone maiden, turning her a lovely violet.

Ametrine

Ametrine, also known as trystine, occurs naturally as a bicolor gemstone. It represents two of the most valued types of quartz in a single stone; amethyst and citrine. Ametrine was discovered in 1977, and it has become increasingly popular for stone-set jewelry.

Aquamarine

Aquamarine, a member of the beryl family, gets its name from two Latin words that mean "water" and "sea". This lovely blue gem has been popular since 400 B.C. Ancient Greeks believed aquamarine held the essence and spirit of the sea. Wearing this stone was said to protect one from adversities at sea, prevent seasickness, and provide courage and a strong will. To early Christians, aquamarine symbolized harmony, happiness, innocence, youthfulness, and purity.

Blue Topaz

The name topaz is most likely derived from the old Sanskrit word tapaz (fire). A common misconception is that all topaz is yellow. Pure topaz is colorless, but this well-loved gem occurs in a broad range of colors: yellow, brown, pink, red, blue, and green.

Certain gems, like Blue Topaz, are commonly irradiated to produce color changes that enhance their appearance. Blue Topaz is the most popular irradiated gem, as this stone almost never occurs naturally in blue. Using a two-step process, colorless topaz can be transformed into light, medium, or dark blue topaz depending on the radiation source. Radiation turns the topaz green then heating it turns it blue. Preferred radiation sources are gamma cells and linear accelerators because they don't leave residual radioactivity in the stones. You can be sure that stones purchased through "The Ronaldo Collection" have been thoroughly inspected and are not radioactive. Besides topaz, other gems that can be irradiated are quartz, aquamarine, diamond, and sapphire.

Ancient Greeks called topaz the "Stone of Strength". During medieval times, topaz was thought to heal both physical and mental disorders and prevent death.

Citrine

Citrine belongs to the quartz family, although it is often mistakenly called topaz. The name citrine comes from the French citron (lemon), which refers to its color. The Greeks and Romans used citrine for intaglios and cabochions during the first and second centuries. This gemstone was worn as a protective talisman and used for medicinal purposes; it was thought to aid in digestion and cleanse toxins from the body. To some, citrine symbolized lightheartedness and joy.

Diamond

Diamonds consist of pure carbon compressed into a tight, isometric crystalline form. They are considered the hardest substance on the earth. Brilliant diamonds have a high index of refraction. Light entering a cleaved, or cut, diamond from the top may also eventually exit from the top. This gives the false notion of internal sparkle. Colored flashes of light occur in a fiery diamond when light is separated into colors.

Diamonds can cover the entire spectrum of colors. The majority of diamonds range from a perceptible yellow or brownish tint, up to the very rare diamonds described as colorless. Colorless diamonds are the most desirable since they allow the most reflection of light. Off-white diamonds absorb light, inhibiting brilliance. Remember the 4 C's when evaluating diamonds; color, cut, clarity, and carat weight.

Emerald

Emerald belongs to the beryl family. Its green color comes from traces of chromium and vanadium. Most emeralds are treated to enhance their color. The emerald has been cherished since 400 B.C., when it was traded at the earliest gem market in Babylon. The ancient Egyptian emerald mines near the Red Sea were worked as early as 2000 B.C.; these mines were the main source of emeralds for the West until the 16th century. By this time, finer-quality emeralds were being mined in Columbia, and these gems eventually took their place as the world's most coveted emeralds. Today Africa and South America are major sources for this precious gemstone. Gem-quality emeralds are so rare they are considered more valuable than diamonds.

Garnet

The name garnet is derived from the Latin word granatum (pomegranate); this alludes to the garnet's color and seed-like crystal formation. Garnet comes in many forms, and has been treasured for thousands of years. This lovely red stone was once thought to cure fever and promote good health, and it was worn for protection when traveling. It is said that Asiatic tribes once used garnets in place of bullets during battle—they believed blood-red garnet to be more deadly than a lead bullet. Over the years this vibrant gemstone has symbolized many things to many people: fire, faith, truth, grace, constancy, and fidelity.

Mexican Fire Opal

Mexican fire opal is named for its brilliant red to orange body color, which is partly due to iron oxide. Mined in Mexico, this opal is lighter weight than other opals. These opals tend to have one body color and do not usually contain the flashes of light and color typical of other opals. Mexican fire opal is the only natural opal that is normally faceted. The Aztec Indians of Mexico were among the first to know about this fiery gem. Europeans learned about Mexican fire opals when the Spanish conquistadors brought it back from the New World.

Opal

Opals, gemstones composed of silicon and oxygen, are valued for their iridescence. The distinctive sparkling play of color displayed by precious opals comes from a unique structure of layered silica spheres. As light passes through the different layers and catches on tiny cracks within the stone, it bends, or refracts, creating bright flashes of color. The layered structure of opals also makes them susceptible to cracking and chipping. The finest opals are found chiefly in Australia, Wales, and Mexico.

Peridot

Before the advent of modern chemistry, stones were classified by color only: all red stones were rubies and all green stones were emeralds. "Emeralds", which we now know to be peridot, were mined on St. John's Island (also called Zebirget) in the Red Sea as early as 1300 B.C. At that time the island was known as Topazios, and the green gems were called Topaz.

Peridot, a gem variety of the mineral olivine, was greatly prized by Egyptian kings, and was often mined under harsh conditions. It is said that pirates discovered peridot on Zebirget, but the island was often hidden by heavy fog and its location was lost for centuries. Zebirget and the peridot mines were rediscovered in the 1900s.

Part of the romance of emerald comes from its association with Cleopatra. A portion of that romance should rightfully belong to high-quality peridot, since some, if not all, of Cleopatra's "emeralds" were no doubt peridot.

Peridot is a gem that's been connected to superstition throughout the ages. Associated with the sun, peridot is believed to have the power to break evil spells and dispel the mysteries of the dark. During the Middle Ages, people wore peridot to gain foresight and divine inspiration.

Ruby

Ruby, a red variety of corundum, is considered one of the world's most valuable gemstones. The name ruby comes from the Latin rubeus (red). A ruby's color is due to a trace of chromic oxide; the amount of this substance determines the depth of color. Because of its hardness and durability, ruby is an excellent choice for all types of jewelry.

Rubies are believed to have great powers. It's been said that owning a ruby will ensure a peaceful, harmonious, and healthful life. Ruby is also thought to control one's passions and thoughts. To many people, its stimulating color represents heat, life, and power. Ruby has been worn as an amulet for protection from plagues, poison, sorrow, and evil spirits. The ancient Hindus considered ruby the "lord of Gems". To them, this fiery stone burned with an inextinguishable fire, one that could boil the water in which it was placed. The Greeks believed it could melt wax. In India, it was said that he who offered rubies to the gods would be reincarnated as a powerful king or emperor. The Burmese felt a ruby must not just be worn, but embedded in the skin to become part of the body, thus making the wearer invulnerable.

Sapphire

Sapphire gets its name from the Latin saphirus and the Greek sappheiros (blue). The color in blue sapphire comes from titanium and iron oxides; the depth of color depends on the amount of oxides in the stone. Prized since ancient times, sapphire has been called the "gem of the heavens." Persians believed the earth rested on an enormous sapphire and the sky reflected its beautiful color. In the 12th century, the Bishop of Rennes praised the sapphire and initiated its use in ecclesiastical rings.

Smoky Quartz

Quartz is a common mineral with valuable electrical and optical properties. People have long believed in its healing powers, and it is still thought capable of divine and clairvoyant inspiration. Smoky quartz is often incorrectly called smoky topaz.

Tanzanite

Tanzanite, a blue zoisite, is trichroic—it often exhibits different colors when viewed from different directions. These stones are cut to show the orientation of blue to violet-blue colors. NOTE: Because of its low resistance to ultrasound, tanzanite should not be cleaned in an ultrasonic cleaner.

Tourmaline

Tourmaline, a relatively hard stone, is one of a gem variety known as elbaite. It is among gemstones that appear to be two different colors when viewed from different sides, a property known as dichroism. In dichoric materials, light is absorbed differently depending on its angle of travel, so two separate colors may be seen from different directions. The name tourmaline is said to have originated from the Sinhalese term turmali (mixed-color stone). Tourmaline has been used as a gem material for more than 2000 years.

Cameos

Cameos, precious or semiprecious gemstones with carved decorations. Cameos can be made from shells, agates, colored glass or porcelain. Cameos are distinguished by relief decoration (carved design that projects above the background surface), but they may also include intaglio decoration (design carved into the body of the object). Design motifs may include heads in profile, figures, coats of arms, or other devices. Most relief cameos consist of two or more different colors. The top layer is carved in the darker, lower layer forms a background. Cameos are used as jewelry, including brooches, pendants, and rings. Although the art of gem carving was known in very early times, cameo carving did not become an art until the 4th or 3rd century B.C. in Greece. Cameos were popular in Rome, and during the Renaissance. (14th century to 16th century) They gained a renewed interest, which continues to the present day.

Cameos are fine pieces of art that combine the beauty of a natural material with a sculptor's hand-carved design for a look that's been treasured for centuries. Shell cameos are carved from two types of shell (cassis rufa or cassis madagascariensis) found off the coasts of Mozambique, Madagascar, Zanzibar, and the Bahamas. They typically consist of two distinctly carved layers that are not glued. Our genuine hand-carved shell cameos are created by some of the finest artisans who are carrying on this centuries-old tradition.

Genuine Semi-Precious Gemstones

Amber

Amber is an organic gem, the hardened, fossilized sap or resin from ancient pine trees. Its name probably stems from the Arabic ambar (meaning ambergris, a substance from a sperm whale used to make perfume). Amber has been treasured and used for centuries; beads, pendants, buttons, and other ornamental carved objects have been made from this gem. Amber often contains bubbles and other interesting inclusions, such as small plant or animal fossils. The color and transparency of amber can vary, but the most common colors are orange, yellow, and brown.

Aventurine

Aventurine is a quartzite gemstone composed of interlocking quartz and small micro crystals. It has a light green iridescent color. A healing stone in times of readjustment and transition, it gently and calmly stabilizes the body, increases opportunities and speculative ventures. It aids in the transformation of a physical condition.

Azurite-Malachite

Azurite, a blue mineral, is often associated with the green mineral malachite. Both are basic carbonated of copper, and are formed by the alteration of copper sulphide minerals. The most important deposits of azurite and malachite occur at Chesse, near Lyon, in France; in the Ural Mountains of Russia; in Australia; and in Arizona. They have been used widely as gemstones since ancient times. Azurite-Malachite is a naturally occurring combination of these two beautiful elements. It has a spectacular combination of deep blue and green colors. The color blue is said to calm the state of anxiety, and green initiates the healing force.

Black Onyx

Onyx is a type of opaque chalcedony that comes in various colors. Black onyx is one of the most popular stones on the market today. Although it occurs naturally in black, it is generally dyed to achieve a more uniform color.

Black Onyx, an excellent stone for initiating the modes of centering and alignment of the total person with the higher powers. It can be used to banish grief, enhance self-control, stimulate powers of wise decision-making and encourage happiness and good fortune. It helps one to absorb from the universe those energies, which are needed. Onyx can be used to cleanse the intuitive receivers such that one may feel the connection to the whole, while continuing to be aware of the many opportunities available for use of intuitive guidance. It also futures the quality of sentience of the instincts helping one to both see and to feel the guidance. Onyx helps one to follow the path alone. Promoting the recognition of personal strength and assertion one in the understanding of the reality of the moment. It helps one to become the master of ones own future. It has been used in the treatment of disorders related to bones, soft tissues and to the feet.

Bloodstone

Bloodstone is a type of chalcedony also known as heliotrope; this name comes from the Greek helio (sun) and trepein (turning). Iron minerals cause the characteristic red and brown spots, which are said to resemble blood drops.

This mineral is an intense healing stone and a “stone of courage”. It provides one with the centering and grounding energy of the heart. It is conducive to balancing the total body in order to help one to overcome any distress and anxiety. The message, which lies within bloodstone, is to “be here now”. It grants one the mastery of renewal of the physical, mental, and emotional. It also provides for the revitalization of love, relationships, and friendships. It helps one to demonstrate unselfishness and idealism, support the decision making process. It is said that bloodstone is used to dispel states of bewilderment and obscure thought. ### Crazy Lace Agate

This mineral can be used to help one to reach extremely high physical levels. It allows one to laugh heartily and to comprehend the games of the world we live in. Crazy Lace Agate has been used in the treatment of heart disorders and to provide vitality to the vital organs.

Goldstone (Brown and Blue)

Goldstone comes in either brown or blue colors, with spangles of crystallized copper throughout. This is a transmitter stone, which causes light to pass through you in order to convey your message to others or to receive messages. Goldstone is an intellectually calming and refreshing stone and it also promotes openness, honesty, relaxation and sharing.

Hematite

Hematite is iron oxide, a common iron ore. Its name comes from the Greek aima, or ema (blood), which refers to the blood-red color of powdered hematite. Used as an ornamental stone since early times, hematite has sometimes erroneously been called black diamond. The ancient Egyptians used it to treat hysteria, to reduce inflammation, and to place in tombs. Engraved hematite seals have been found in the ruins of ancient Babylon.

Hematite is called the "Stone of the Mind". It helps one to sort out things in ones mind and can be used for mental attunement, memory enhancement, original thinking, and technical knowledge. Although this stone enhances mental capability, it provides for a calming atmosphere concurrently. In addition, it encourages one to reach for the sun. It helps one to realize that the only limitations, which exist, are those self-limiting concepts within the mind. It assists in the focusing of energy and emotions for balance between the body, mind and spirit. Hematite has been used to stimulate the desire for and to facilitate the attainment of peace, self-control and inner happiness. It is also conducive to enabling one to enter into a loving relationship. It has been said to attract "Kind" love. It is said that Hematite has been used for the treatment of Arthritis, leg cramps, blood disorders, nervous disorders and insomnia.

Howlite

This mineral can be used to calm communication, facilitate awareness, and to encourage emotional expression. It tends to combine the power of reasoning with observation and patience. Providing for discernment, retentive memory and a laudable desire for knowledge. It spurs one toward the ambition to reach ones goals and assists in eliminating hesitation with respect to action. It dispels criticalness, cold selfishness, and facetiousness bringing both strength and innocence to immediate confrontations. It builds decency within ones character, encouraging those attributers which are the building blocks to spirituality. Howlite has been used to eliminate pain, stress and rage. It is quite nice to have around. It can help to lessen rudeness and boisterousness and can provide for a reflection of the offender to the offended. It discourages impertinent behavior and encourages subtlety and tact. Howlite has been used for the treatment in balancing calcium levels in the body and the treatment of disorders of the teeth, bone structure, and the soft tissues.

Jade

Rich green jade has long held a position of great cultural and historical significance, particularly in Asia. The Chinese have valued this gem more than any other, using it for currency, ceremonial vessels, and marriage bowls. Jade has also been used to produce great works of art (jewelry and carvings), as well as for medicinal purposes.

Jade is known as the “ Dream Stone “ and as the “ Stone of Fidelity “. It brings realization to ones potential and devotion to ones purpose. It improves ones remembering of dreams and assists in dream solving. Jade is used to release suppressed emotions via the dream process. For this activity a piece of jade is placed under the pillow prior to sleep or is worn during sleep. Jade helps one to cherish ones desires and facilitates the building of ones dreams in the physical world. It releases ones limitations such that permission is granted which allows one to actualize aspirations and to attain limitless achievements. It inspires and induces ambition toward the accomplishment of objectives. It helps to attune one to the needs of others and inspires wisdom during the assessment of problems. It promotes the balancing of ones need with the requirements of the day, allowing one to recognize and to care for that which is of prime importance to well being. It also provides confidence, assisting one in the attainment of self-assuredness, self-reliance and self-sufficiency. It can be used in the treatment of disorders of the heart, hips, kidneys, and the spleen.

Lapis Lazuli

Lapis lazuli is composed of lazurite, pyrite, and calcite. This vivid blue gemstone gets its name from the Arabic, allazward, (meaning sky or blue). Lapis has been used since before 3100 B.C. Ancient Egyptians were particularly fond of this stone; they used powdered lapis pigment for medicines, cosmetics (the first eye shadow), and paintings. They also believed lapis to be sacred and buried it with their dead to protect and guide them in the afterlife. Today Afghanistan remains a major source for this gemstone; it’s also one of the oldest sources, as lapis has been mined there for more than 6000 years.

Lapis, the “ stone of Leadership “, is said to have existed since “ before time was born “. Lapis assists one in gaining admission to the domain of the unknown mysteries of the sacred texts and the esoteric ideas and enhancing the wisdom to understand the information. It further allows one to gain access to and explore the esoteric planetary knowledge.

Leopard Skin Jasper

Jasper is a variety of microscopically crystallized quartz (chalcedony) that is heavily pigmented with colorful minerals. Many of the red to ochre colors are due to iron oxide in the stone. Jasper has been used for many centuries as a gemstone and for ornaments, sculptures, and carvings. It is hard and durable, and it polishes well. It aids in finding and achieving life’s goals.

Malachite

This copper mineral features a characteristic banding pattern and a rich green color. Malachite gets its name from the Greek word Malakhe (mallow), a reference to its color. The Egyptian used malachite as early as 400 B.C. for amulets, jewelry, and cosmetics (powdered eye shadow). During the Middle Ages, malachite was worn for protection from sorcery and black magic.

Malachite is known as the “Stone of Transformation”. Assisting one in changing situations. Providing for the transfer of sacred information leading to spiritual evolution. It is an excellent stone for clarifying the emotions and for allowing for both the recognition and the release of negative experiences, which one cannot recall. In the re-birthing situation, it provides for ease of disposal of opposing encounters. Malachite is an equalizing and balancing agent. It can create an unobstructed path, leading to a desired goal. It also provides for an indication of the procedural steps required to attain a chosen end result. It helps one to accept responsibility for ones actions, circumstances and actuality. Bringing understanding and intuitive answers to the forefront prior to response and subsequent action. It stimulates instinctive and intuitive reasoning, allowing for change, which facilitates advancement. It represents fidelity in love and friendship and loyalty in partnerships and practicality and responsibility in business transactions. The malachite structures exhibiting druses are also especially energetic in facilitating both the rise of spirituality and the enhancement of psychic abilities. The stalactite form of malachite also encourages progression toward the spiral of infinite wisdom while providing strength for the journey. This mineral is said to help one to look deep within and to acknowledge the reasons supporting an illness, guiding and supporting one in the release of the emotional causative factors. It is said to protect against radiation and can be used in the treatment of asthma, arthritis, swollen joints, tumors, growths, broken bones and torn muscles. It is also said to regulate the DNA structures, to align and cleanse the cellular structure, to enhance the immune system and to ease the process of childbirth.

Mexican Lace Agate

This mineral can be used to help one to reach extremely high physical levels. It also helps one to understand the plan of the “perfect human” providing insight to the many paths, which are available to take one to the heights of awareness. It allows one to laugh, heartily and to comprehend the games of this world. It has been used in the treatment of the heart and to provide vitality to the vital organs.

Moss Agate

Moss agate leads one toward the characteristics of agreeableness, persuasiveness, and strength in all endeavors and efficiency in all pursuits. It helps to improve ego and self-esteem, providing for emotional balancing and strengthening of the positive personality traits. It allows one to see the beauty within all that ones eyes touch. It is said to help one in the acquisition of riches and to bring one the powers of speed. It can be used in the treatment of dehydration, disorders of the eyes, to improve fungal infections, to stimulate digestion and the elimination of toxins from the body. It is also said to relieve the symptoms of colds internal infections and the flu.

Pearl (Fresh Water Pearl and Mabe' Pearls)

Pearls come in a variety of different colors, shapes, and sizes. They are known for their dramatic beauty, timeless appeal, and lustrous sheen. Pearls have been cherished throughout the ages. A symbol of beauty, purity and wealth, no other gem has retained such a level of value and desirability for as long as the pearl.

In natural pearls, a grain of sand (or some irritating impurity) lodges within the mantle of a mollusk (a saltwater oyster or freshwater mussel). To protect itself, the animal secretes nacreous layers around the grain of sand. Eventually, this “irritant” forms into a pearl. In cultured pearls, a bead nucleus is inserted between the mantle and the shell, and the natural nacre-forming process produces a pearl.

The pearl signifies faith, charity and innocence. It enhances personal integrity and help to provide a focus to ones attention. The pearl symbolizes purity and can stimulate that condition in ones body and mind. Providing a clear vehicle for the advancing states of wisdom and well as a clean channel for receipt of spiritual guidance. The pearl has been known as the " Stone of Sincerity ". Bringing truth to situations and loyalty to a cause. It has been used to inhibit boisterous behavior and to provide a reflection of the self such that may see the manner in which one appears to others. It has been used in the treatment of digestive disorders and to relieve conditions of and bloating. It is used to treat the soft organs of the body, increase fertility and ease childbirth.

Red Jasper

Red Jasper, the stone of " Energy ", has been used to assist one in rectifying unjust circumstances. It is said that meditation with this mineral can provide insight to the method of improvement. The energy communicates the message that all choice is singularly one responsibility. It can also assist in providing for rescue in situations of danger. Red Jasper can facilitate the reiteration of dreams to allow the dreamer to remember the aspects, which could be consequential in their life. It can also be used to prevent set backs and disorder. The mineral assists in helping one to learn to progress and to eliminate the aspects of digression.

Rhodonite

This mineral can help one to attain calm assurance in all activities. It has been called the " Stone of love ". It is said to help one achieve their greatest potential. It can dispel anxiety and promote coherence during chaotic encounters. It brings to the user an observant nature and facilitates attention to details and interrelationships. Rhodonite has been used in the treatment of emphysema, inflammation of the joints, light sensitivity, throat infections, heart disorders and arthritis.

Rhyolite

This mineral represents change, variety and progress. It lights the fire of creativity within the soul. It helps one to strengthen both body and mind and to learn how to enjoy the vast potential within the self. It is an excellent stone for promulgating with humility the concept and actualization of self-realization. It is the " Stone of Resolution ". It brings the unresolved to completion. Rhyolite can be used in the treatment of disorders of the veins, to dispel chills, to eliminate rashes and skin disorders and to improve the assimilation and action of the b-complex vitamins.

Rose Quartz

Translucent rose quartz is just one of the many beautiful varieties of quartz. The name quartz is derived from the Slavic word kwardy (hard). The soft, milky pink color comes from the presence of titanium and other inclusions. The Assyrians and ancient Romans were among the first to use rose quartz.

Rose Quartz emits a calming energy, which can work to gently remove negativity and to reinstate the loving, gentle forces of self-love. It provides the message that there is no need for haste in any situation and brings calmness and clarity to the emotions and restoring the mind to harmony after chaotic or crisis situations. The energy emitted is soft and silky, producing a gentleness from without and from within the wearer. It has been known as the " Stone of gentle love ", bringing peacefulness and calm to relationships. It promotes receptivity to the beauty of art, music and the written word. Enlivening imagination, and representing young, warm love. It can be used for spiritual attunement to the energy of love. This mineral is quite effective in the treatment of conditions relating to the emotional body. Rose Quartz can act as a rejuvenation agent for both the physical body and the emotions. It is an excellent energy for healing emotional wounds. Rose Quartz also instills permanence to ones loving nature.

Snowflake Obsidian

Obsidian is a volcanic glass formed by the rapid cooling of lava. The name obsidian is probably derived from a man name Obsius, who is said to have discovered the stone in Ethiopia. Snowflake Obsidian is a popular black variety patterned with grayish white inclusions that resemble snowflakes.

Allows one to recognize the unnecessary patterns, which remain in ones life, and to redesign ones thought patterns to provide relief from undesired conditions. It assists one in actualizing the serenity of the isolated state. When isolation is manifested, stimulating the surrender to the totality of the meditative state and further promoting a sensitivity to the most vital powers in the universe, Love and beauty. It is known as " Stone of Purity ", and it brings both purity and balance to the body, mind and spirit.

Sodalite

Sodalite, a mineral component of lapis lazuli, is commonly mistake for lapis because of its similar appearance. This rich blue gemstone rarely contains pyrite inclusions, as does lapis. The name sodalite alludes to the sodium content of this stone. It is believed to dispel guilt and fear, and draws wisdom.

Tiger's Eye

Tiger's Eye is a variety of quartz with very fine, similarly orientated fibrous inclusions. When this gemstone is properly cut into cabochon form, it sometimes produces a chatoyant effect (changeable luster). Tiger's eye is a stone for people who need ore confidence to accomplish their goals. Tiger's Eye helps us recognize the resources for the attainment of our dreams.

Tree Agate

Tree Agate, is a form of chalcedony, and an excellent gem material because of its hardness, attractive colors, and ability to take a brilliant polish. Agates are available in a variety of patterns and range from transparent to opaque, which occurs in many beautiful colors. Agate is named after the Achates River in Sicily, now known as the Drillo River, which remains a major source of this gemstone. Agate was valued by ancient civilizations; the Egyptians used it before 3000 B.C., and it was discovered with the Stone Age man in France (20,000-16,000 B.C.) Agates are said to blend and bind energies for strength and protection.

Unakite

Unakite is a variegated stone composed of quartz, pink feldspar, and green epidote. The intensity of its green color depends in part on the amount of iron present. This popular stone is named after the area where it was discovered—the Unaka range in South Carolina. It is said to promote balance and emotional stability. Transforms negative emotions into positive ones, a grounding stone.

Yellow Jasper

Yellow Jasper is in the Jasper family, and has a variety of microscopically crystallized quartz (chalcedony) that is heavily pigmented with colorful minerals. Yellow Jasper has been said to be beneficial to the endocrine glands and the cleansing organs. This is an energizing stone that makes you feel stronger and in better physical condition.

Preferred Gems of the Ancients

Back to the earliest traceable societies, gems were worn on the body only by rulers and members of the royal families. Later, with the growth of religion and out of respect for divine law and its early administration, priests, wise men and other religious leaders followed their monarchic leaders in adorning their bodies and their robes.

Necklaces were the first fashionable ornaments. Then came rings and earrings. Much later, broaches and pins came into wide usage. Crowns, facemasks and facial jewelry were used to decorate noses, foreheads, mouths and checks. Such adornments have been discovered in tombs around the world, testifying to early man's preference for and appreciation of gems and stones.

The favored stones of societies, as diversified as their geographical locations, were:

Early Egyptians	Babylonians & Mesopotamians	Early Jews	Romans	Incans & Mayans
Agate	Amethyst	Agate	Agate	Agate

Gemstone History & Optical Properties

Gemstones are minerals that are treasured for their beauty and durability. A large number of minerals have been used as gems. Their value generally depends on four elements: the beauty of the stone itself; its rarity; its hardness and toughness; and the skill with which it has been cut and polished. Stones such as diamonds, rubies, and emeralds represent one of the greatest concentrations of money value. During times of war or economic disturbance many people convert their wealth into precious stones, which are transportable and more easily sold.

OPTICAL PROPERTIES

The beauty of gems depends to a large extent on their optical properties. The most important optical properties are the degree of refraction and color. Other properties include fire, the display of prismatic colors; dichroism, the ability of some gemstones to present two different colors when viewed in different directions; and transparency. Diamond is highly prized because of its fire and brilliancy, ruby and emerald because of the intensity and beauty of their colors, and star sapphire and star ruby because of the star effect, known as asterism, as well as for their color.

In certain gemstones, notably opals, brilliant areas of color can be seen within the stone; these areas change in hue and size as the stone is moved. This phenomenon, known as play of color, differs from fire and is caused by interference and reflection of the light by tiny irregularities and cracks inside the stone. Opals also exhibit milky or smoky reflections from within the gem. Gems that are fibrous in structure show irregular interior reflections similar to those seen on watered or moiré silk. This optical property, which is called chatoyancy, is exhibited by several gems, notably the tiger-eye and cat's-eye. The appearance of a gem as seen by reflected light is another optical property of gemstones and is called luster. The luster of gems is characterized by the terms metallic, adamantine (like the luster of the diamond), vitreous (like the luster of glass), resinous, greasy, silky, pearly, or dull. Luster is particularly important in the identification of gemstones in their uncut state.

IDENTIFICATION OF GEMS

A gem cannot always be identified by sight alone. It is therefore necessary to rely on measurement of the optical properties that can be determined without harming the stone in any way. The gemologist uses an instrument called a refractometer to measure the characteristic property of the stone, known as refractive index, which is its relative ability to refract light. In addition, an instrument called the polariscope is employed to determine whether a gem is doubly or singly refracting. Emeralds, rubies, sapphires, amethysts, and synthetic rubies and sapphires are all doubly refracting, whereas diamonds, spinels, synthetic spinels, garnets, and glass are singly refracting. A special dark-field illuminator with a binocular microscope is employed for examining the interior of a gemstone to determine whether it is of natural or artificial origin, and to search for inclusions characteristic of a given gemstone. These tests usually are sufficient to identify the rather limited number of materials used as gemstones; occasionally, however, other instruments are required, including a dichroscope, which measures the property called dichroism, or a spectroscope to determine the characteristic absorption spectra. Hardness, the test ordinarily associated with gem testing, is never used on cut stones by the gemologist. Another physical test that can be given to an unknown stone is the determination of its specific gravity. For exact determinations various weighing devices are used, but rough approximations of the specific gravity of lighter stones can be made by means of a series of liquids of known specific gravity. If the stone will float in a liquid having a specific gravity of 4 and sink in a liquid with a specific gravity of 3, the specific gravity of the stone must lie between these limits and be approximately 3.5.

Artificial Gem

The term artificial gem is used to describe either an imitation of a natural gemstone or a synthetic gem that is chemically identical to naturally occurring gems.

Imitation Gem

During the 19th century, artificial pearls were made by blowing hollow beads of glass and pouring into them a mixture of liquid ammonia and the white matter from the scales of fish such as the bleak, roach, or dace. A much better type of artificial pearl, the indestructible bead, was introduced shortly after 1900. The bead is made of solid glass with only a narrow hole for the thread. Pearl essence, consisting of the crushed scales of certain herring, is applied to the outside of the glass and covered with a transparent, colorless lacquer.

The most successful imitation of a diamond is strontium titanate, made by a flame-fusion technique. Its index of refraction is almost identical to that of a diamond, and it has a higher dispersion. Thus, it has the brilliance and greater fire than the diamond. It scratches easily, however. A harder material simulating the diamond is rutile, or titanium oxide.

Synthetic Gems

The U.S. Federal Trade commission to manufactured materials that duplicate a natural gemstone chemically, physically, and optically limits the term. Synthetic gems can be distinguished under a microscope because they are more perfect than natural gemstones and contain no irregularities.

The General Electric Company in the U.S. first made synthetic diamonds in 1955. In their process, carbonaceous compounds are subjected to pressures of 56 metric tons per sq cm (360 metric tons per sq in) at temperatures of 2760° C (5000° F). The diamonds thus produced are suitable only for industrial use.

In the late 1960s a method was developed for “growing” diamonds by heating a diamond particle to a high temperature and subjecting it to methane gas. The gas decomposes into carbon atoms, which adhere to the diamond crystal. The crystal structure of the enlarged diamond is identical to that of a natural diamond. Diamonds of about 1 carat (200 mg or 0.007 oz) have been produced by this method, but their cost is still considerably higher than that of naturally occurring diamonds.

Sapphires are made in an apparatus resembling an oxyhydrogen torch. The flame is directed into a fireclay support inside an insulated chamber. The oxygen gas carries finely powdered pure aluminum oxide into the flame, and the powder fuses into droplets, forming a cylindrical boule, or matrix, on the support. Varying the gas flow, temperature, and amount of powder controls the size of the resulting sapphire. Boules weighing up to 200 carats (40 g or 1.41 oz) can be produced by this technique. Perfect rubies and sapphires up to 50 carats (10 g or 0.353 oz) have been cut from such a boule.

The same process makes rubies by adding 5 to 6 percent chromium oxide to the aluminum oxide. Adding different metallic oxides produces colors other than red. Stars can be added to synthetic rubies or sapphires by adding an excess of titanium oxide to the aluminum oxide powder and heating to temperatures greater than 1000° C (greater than 1832° F). In gems made with this technique, synthetic stars appear sharper than naturally occurring stars.

Emeralds, some of which are of gem quality, are synthesized by still-secret methods. They can be distinguished from natural emeralds by their red glow under ultraviolet light.

GEM CUTTING

Expert workers known as lapidaries perform the shaping and polishing of gem materials to enhance their beauty and, in some cases, to remove imperfections.

Their trade, although highly skilled, is not as exacting as that of the diamond cutter.

Materials and Equipment

Gems are shaped entirely by being ground on abrasive wheels or revolving abrasive disks. For minerals that are no harder than quartz, natural sandstone wheels are sometimes used, but for the harder stones, such as rubies and sapphires, synthetic-grinding wheels of cemented Carborundum (silicon carbide) must be employed.

The first step in the cutting of a gem is to saw it roughly to shape. Thin abrasive disks or metal disks charged with powdered diamond or other abrasives are employed in this process. Wheels (called laps) made of Carborundum or of abrasive-charged cast iron are used to shape the stone. The stone to be shaped is cemented to the end of a wooden stick called a dop and is held against the revolving wheel or lap with the aid of a supporting block placed adjacent to the wheel. This supporting block contains a number of holes in which the end of the dop can be rested. By changing the dop from one hole to another the lapidary is able to control the angle of the facet, or face, being ground. When the stone has been ground to the required shape, it is brought to a high polish on wooden or cloth wheels charged with a fine abrasive such as rouge or tripoli powder.

Gem Cuts

The oldest and simplest of the many standardized shapes or cuts given to gemstones is the cabochon cut, in which the stone is smoothly rounded. The cabochon cut is essential if a star or cat's-eye is to be visible, and is the most satisfactory cut for opal, moonstone, and colorful opaque gems. Cabochon-cut stones usually are rounded on the back; this is sometimes advantageous in improving appearance, but often is done in order to give the stone extra weight.

Various forms of faceted cuts, in which the gem is given a number of symmetrical plane surfaces, or facets, are universally employed in the cutting of diamonds and are used extensively for other stones as well. The most common cut is the brilliant. In this cut the top of the stone is ground to a flat so-called table from which the sides of the stone slope outward to the broadest portion of the stone, which is known as the girdle. Below the girdle, the sides slope inward at a slightly broader angle to a tiny flat surface, the culet, parallel to the table at the bottom of the stone. The ordinary brilliant-cut stone has 32 facets besides the table in the top portion of the stone (called the crown or bezel) above the girdle, and 24 facets besides the culet on the bottom portion of the stone (called the pavilion or base) below the girdle. In rare cases the number of facets is increased by some multiple of 8. Scientific studies have worked out proportions of the size and inclination of the facets that give the maximum brilliance to a given gem.

In addition to the round brilliant, stones are cut in a variety of square, triangular, diamond-shaped, and trapezoidal faceted cuts. The original shape of the stone largely determines the use of such cuts. Large rubies, sapphires, and emeralds are often cut square or rectangular with a large table facet surrounded by a relatively small number of supplementary facets. The emerald cut, which is frequently also used for diamonds, resembles the brilliant, but has a large square or rectangular facet at the top and a total of 58 facets in all, although more or less facets may be used, again added or subtracted in multiples of 8..

GEM ENGRAVING

Designs are cut in precious or semiprecious stones either as cameos, in which the design is raised in relief above the surface, or as intaglios, in which the design is incised into the surface. Intaglios were formerly often used as seals for making impressions on wax or damp clay.

The technique of gem engraving requires, on all hard stones, the use of a rotating metal tool. The stone is fastened to a wooden handle and moved against the tool, which does not itself perform the cutting of the design but merely rubs abrasive powder on the stone. The ancients probably used emery powder for this purpose, but since Roman times the abrasive has been a mixture of diamond dust with oil.

Ancient Engraving

Intaglio cutting probably started during the 4th millennium BC, in Mesopotamia, during the Elamite and Sumerian civilizations. The first seals, made of stone, were usually cylindrical and were suspended on a cord. The art reached its peak about 2800 BC, in elaborate cuttings on cylindrical rock crystal; these commonly dealt with the adventures of the mythical king Gilgamesh. By the 1st millennium BC the art had spread throughout Asia Minor and Egypt. Although the cylindrical form was still common, domed and conical seals with flat surfaces for the intaglios became popular. The Egyptians initially adopted the cylinder but later produced seals of various shapes, including that of the scarab beetle, often cut in one of the colored quartzes, such as amethyst, carnelian, or jasper. Unlike the people of Asia Minor, they engraved symbols rather than pictorial scenes. Although the Egyptians made use of the quartzes for their engravings, the most popular material for the making of seals was glazed earthenware. The earliest Cretan gems were carved in soft steatite, but by about 1700 BC harder stones such as chalcedony were employed. The engraving of seals for the bezels of rings was first practiced about 1100 BC.

The carvings on the gems of Greece and Rome provide a complete miniature history of the art of every period during which they were made. The Greek gems of the 6th century BC were cut in agate, carnelian, and chalcedony; by the 4th century BC the last had become the most popular material, although lapis lazuli, agate, jasper, and rock crystal were also employed. Gems of the Hellenistic period, dating from about 330 BC, were cut in a large variety of stones, including garnet, beryl, topaz, sard, agate, and amethyst. The use of glass as a substitute for more precious stones was introduced about this time. The cameo, usually made of one of the layered quartzes (such as sardonyx) or in colored glass, made its first appearance in Hellenic Greece and was brought to a high artistic level by the Roman craftsmen. The cameo was commonly employed in articles of personal adornment, such as brooches or clasps. The intaglio gems of Rome were usually used as the bezels of rings.

Revival in Europe

By the 2nd century AD gem engraving had declined in Asia Minor, the best examples being talismans produced by the adherents of the Gnostic heresy. They are frequently connected with the symbolism attached to the worship of Mithras. In Europe a limited number of gems were engraved, usually for bishops' rings, until the 7th century, but the art then declined until the end of the 14th century, when Florentine and German engravings made their appearance. In Italy the art received impetus from the ardor with which the Medici family collected gems. Although the artists of the Renaissance based their designs on those of the Greek and Roman artists, they employed a freedom of interpretation that made their work individual. On the other hand, the revival of gem engraving that took place in the 18th and 19th centuries produced works that so closely resembled the classical originals that it is difficult to tell them apart.

About the Artist

As an artist, Ronaldo has spent over 32,000 hours honing his skills, and developing his artistic style, which has reached a level of perfection and distinction that is unmatched by any other artisan in this unique art form. He has become known as the premier jewelry artist in the nation.

He is a successful businessman with 25 years of experience in direct sales, marketing, and motivation. He has spent some 112,000 hours developing the skills learned through his many years in business administration, and all of these skills have become invaluable to his success. Ronaldo's businesses have included over 32 mall locations, 625 jewelry stores who have represented his products, and over 700 sales reps in 35 states have sold Ronaldo's products.

But, out of all his life's works, the creation of "The Ronaldo Collection" is closest to his heart, because it is the one thing that lets him express his life's true passion, creating works of art!

Under his guidance, 42 artisans have been trained in this fascinating and beautiful art form. Training these artisans is an ongoing and continual process because creating works of art is about vision and intuition. It's about teaching the artisan to see the end result of the work. It's about the slightest movement of the hands, twist of the wire, and placement of the gemstone. It takes years to become a master craftsman, and under the instruction of Ronaldo many have achieved the level of being named true master artisans.

About the Art

Ronaldo has developed and copyrighted over 800 designs, and he uses only the finest in raw materials and gemstones. He uses 14k gold wire, platinum, sterling silver and 14k rolled gold to create his masterpieces. Then compliments some of his designs with the finest gemstones, semi-precious gemstones, cameos, pearls, and coins. Whatever the customer wants, Ronaldo can provide.

There are 20 or so master artisans who specialize in creating jewelry in mainly one area. One may be an expert at rings; another may be an expert in setting pendants or medallions. None of these artists can do it all. Only Ronaldo can and does create rings, earrings, bracelets, pendants, medallions, collars and necklaces.

There are a few artists who have acquired the skills it takes to weave or braid bracelets, by far the most difficult skill to master in this art form. Ronaldo is the only artist to be able to take it giant step further. Ronaldo's weaving and braiding skills are unmatched by any other artist. He not only works magic in his bracelets, but you can also see his expertise in all of his jewelry. No other artist does it better, and that is a fact.

Ronaldo has perfected working with 14k gold and platinum. No other artist can do so because 14k gold and platinum are in a different league than 14k rolled gold and silver. The materials are so hard, it is like trying to bend and twist a coat hanger with your fingers. Imagine trying to wrap a coat hanger around a pretzel without scratching or denting the hanger or breaking the pretzel. It sounds impossible, but that is exactly what Ronaldo does when he uses 14k gold wire and platinum to wrap around precious gemstones, pearls and cameos. Most professional bench jewelers say it's impossible.

It took Ronaldo 1000's of hours to acquire this skill. Take a close up look at his work, and see for yourself. You won't find scratches or dents in the wire, or on the stone. What you will see is a level of skill that is unsurpassed. The wires flow evenly, are lined up and spaced perfectly. It takes many years to develop this level of skill, few have done it, and none have been able to work with any element, except Ronaldo!

When creating this type of jewelry, the wire sometimes seems to have a mind of its own. It may want to twist and turn where it shouldn't. There is a natural flow to the wire that the artist has to master in order to shape it into the desired form. Only the highest skilled artists can do this. It's easy to make straight bracelets, or simple rings and pendants. But, when it comes to the pieces included in Ronaldo's collection, there is true master craftsmanship at work!

There are no molds or machine made jewelry pieces in "The Ronaldo Collection". Each piece is made entirely by hand with the aid of only a few basic hand tools. Some excellent examples of Ronaldo's skill can be seen in the Monarch series, a collection of single, double and triple basket weave styles. These weaves have 100's of bends and turns that took over a year to develop. Experts have said that making these bracelets out of 14k gold and platinum would be impossible because of the many bends and turns. It was supposed to have put too much stress on the material and break. But, Ronaldo proved them wrong. He proved his skill level could rise to meet this never before obtainable level. Once again, Ronaldo is the only artist who has been able to create this many works of art out of 14k gold and platinum.

Another outstanding example of master craftsmanship is Ronaldo's Byzantine necklace. The Byzantine necklace has over 780 individually made links, all made perfectly to within 1/1000 of an inch. Each link is then put together one piece at a time. This creation can take up to a week to complete. Check it out in our necklace section, and you'll know why this is one of Ronaldo's most challenging pieces.

To Infinity and Beyond . . .

Ronaldo's unique talents as an artist have created a worldwide following of loyal and dedicated customers and collectors. He creates one of a kind artist originals with registration papers that are archived in our national database. He has created limited edition pieces that sell out as soon as they become available. All Ronaldo pieces come with an unprecedented forever warranty and Ronaldo's stamp of approval on each and every design. The forever warranty simply means that the piece is guaranteed forever. If you ever break or bend a wire, send it back, and you'll get a new one, absolutely free of charge.

Ronaldo's one-day only private showings have been hosted by some of the country's most prestigious fine jewelry stores, and he has been regular feature at the second largest casino chain in the nation. Many of Ronaldo's collectors stand in line at these special events just to get his autograph. From New York, to Chicago and Las Vegas, and all points in between, Ronaldo is considered to be in a league of his own. He has dedicated his life to taking his creativity to where no other artist has gone before, and will continue to do so for many years to come.

Technology is taking us to places we've never been before. We are pleased to be able to offer you, for the first time, Ronaldo's product line through our web site. The power of the Internet brings us all closer together. You now have the opportunity to view Ronaldo's private collection, and to find the perfectly designed piece for you!

Ronaldo will always be evolving as an artist, and will add new and exciting designs when they become available, which around here is almost daily. So, sit back, browse our galleries, and find that must have piece for you. Send us an email if you have any questions, comments or suggestions, they are always appreciated. We are looking forward to this new venture, and hope to count you among our many satisfied and loyal friends and collectors worldwide.

Warmest Personal Regards,

Ronaldo

“FOREVER WARRANTY”

The art of handcrafting jewelry has been around for centuries. But, until recently, few had the artistry and skill to bring the craft into the 21st century. Ronaldo has the unique talent to custom design and bring these original works of art to you. His artistic style, from design to handcrafting techniques is second to none.

Your creation has been skillfully hand-crafted from the finest quality raw materials, solid 14kt Gold, Platinum, 14kt Rolled Gold, Sterling Silver, precious & semi-precious gemstones. All designs in “The Ronaldo Collection” are copyrighted, and come with a lifetime guarantee on wire products. Precious and semi-precious gemstones are guaranteed at the point of sale. Any scratches, cracks or breakage after the sale are not covered by this guarantee. We will, however, upon your request, give you a price quote for the replacement of the stone. When returning for repairs, please wrap securely, and enclose a copy of the original receipt. Insure your package, and send with a return receipt for merchandise. We recommend using the U.S. Post Office for all return transactions. We are not responsible for lost or damaged items.

This warranty is extended in compliance with the “Magnuson-Moss Warranty-Federal Trade Commission Improvement Act”. Liability is limited solely to repair of the item. We disclaim liability for consequential damages for breach of any expressed or implied warranty in merchantability for fitness for purpose.

Jewelry Care

Cleaning your jewelry:

The easiest and most inexpensive way to clean your solid 14kt Gold, Platinum, 14kt Rolled Gold, Sterling Silver jewelry is to use any ordinary jewelry cleaner. However, we do recommend Astoria Jewelry Cleaner. It's a great product that doesn't leave any residue on your jewelry. A large bottle will last for years. We have it available under our Products order page.

Simply pour some of the cleaner in a small plastic bowl and drop in your piece. Let it soak for a few minutes, then use an old soft toothbrush to clean the crevices, and rinse with warm water. You can let your jewelry dry naturally, or use a cloth. We like to use a blow dryer on the jewelry, because it dries the jewelry quicker, and doesn't leave any water spots. After you are finished cleaning your jewelry, put a plastic lid on the bowl to keep the cleaning solution from evaporating. You can use it over and over again.

Other jewelry cleaners are also available. These cleaners can usually be found in department stores and jewelry stores. You also can use a polishing cloth, we recommend the Connoisseurs™ Polishing Cloth.

Cleaning Sterling Silver:

No matter what you do, silver is silver, and it will tarnish. First use the jewelry cleaning method described above. You may have to let the piece soak longer than a few minutes, scrub it with the toothbrush a little longer, or even go through the cleaning process more than once. If the tarnish still doesn't come out, there are excellent silver cleaners on the market. Just remember to read the labels carefully and follow the instructions on the container.

CAUTION:

When using an ultrasonic machine, certain gemstones and semi-precious gemstones can and will be damaged using this cleaning method. These machines use an acid based solution that you mix with water. This acid based solution will damage opals, pearls, and many of the precious and semi-precious gemstones. It will pull out the pigment in naturally porous stones and many precious and semi-precious stones. Putting any of these in an ultrasonic machine is a disaster waiting to happen.

Know before You Buy

GOLD

Gold's element symbol is (Au) from the Latin word " Aurum ". Its atomic number is 79. Its atomic weight is 196.96655(2)

The use of the word " GOLD " by itself usually means made of all gold or 24kt. Because 24kt gold is so soft, it is usually mixed with additional metals to increase its hardness and durability for the jewelry industry. The purity of gold used in jewelry varies from 10 karat (.418 gold), through 14kt (.585), 18kt (.752), 22 kt (.918), to 24 karat (.999), which is pure gold. The proportion of pure gold, expressed as its karat (kt) value defines gold purity. The color of gold depends upon the amount and type of impurities it contains. Base gold is typically golden yellow, but in order to vary its color and increase its hardness for use in jewelry, gold may be alloyed with other metals. Silver, copper, platinum, nickel, iron, or zinc may be added to give gold metal present a pale or white, rose or pink, or hint of blue color. Gold in many countries jewelry is "hallmarked" to indicate its degree of gold purity.

14kt Rolled Gold

The term " Rolled Gold " refers to a process of manufacturing of the raw wire materials. The manufacture of the materials uses two ingots of 14k solid gold one on top and the other on the bottom. With a special formulated base metal identical in color to the gold, in the middle. These items are then drawn through a diamond draw plate to the desired gauge and shape. Resulting in a wire that is strong enough and pliable enough for the jewelry industry to work with. This type of wire has been used for nearly a century in the watch and jewelry industry and is commonly found in European countries. This product offers the wearability, beauty, and durability of gold at an affordable price.

Platinum

Platinum's element symbol is (Pt) from the Spanish " Platina ". Its atomic number is 78. Its atomic weight is 195.078(2)

It was not until the late 1500's that Spanish explorers of Columbia discovered this metal. They named it "Platina" meaning "Silver of Little Value" because they did not know what to do with it. Platinum has come a long way since it's discovery over 400 years ago. The fact is that Platinum has climbed to the top of the "Noble" metals list. Usually, only the finest quality jewelry is made from platinum. It is the white noble metal that has been fighting it's way back in to consumer's hearts. Like Gold, Platinum must be alloyed with other metals to make it suitable for jewelry use. The most popular alloys for jewelry are 90% platinum - 10% iridium and 95% platinum - 5% ruthenium. These two alloys are similar in their characteristics.

Silver

Silver's element symbol is (Ag). Its atomic number is 47. Its atomic weight is 107.8682(2)
Silver is rated .999 as Fine Sterling Silver. Fine Silver is 92.5% silver and 7.5% alloy.

Our copyrighted TRC~S40 is one of our most difficult bracelets to make. Only a Master Craftsman like Ronaldo has the ability to work to this exacting detail not only in 14kt rolled gold but also in solid 14kt solid gold and platinum. His weaving and braiding skill sets RONALDO as the STANDARD which all other wire crafters and their work are measured.

Trinity Bracelet
TRC~S 126
14kt Rolled Gold smooth

$275.00

Through out time there has been one constant that has stood the test of time, that is the Trinity. This copyrighted design dates back over 1000 years. The three braids in the center represent the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit.

Historical Significance of the TRINITY:

The Holy Spirit or Holy Ghost, In Christian belief, is the third person of the TRINITY. The others Being, God the Father and Jesus Christ God the Son. In the New Testament, Jesus Christ refers to the Holy Spirit as the Counselor whom the father will send in my name. (John 14:26).

A theology of the Holy Spirit developed slowly, largely in response to controversies over the relation of Jesus Christ to God the Father. In 325 AD, the council of Nicaca condemned as heresy the Arian teachings that the Son was a creature, neither equal to, nor coeternal with, God the Father. In 381 AD, the council of Constantinople condemned the logical extension of the view that the Holy Spirit was created by the son. The council stated: "I believe in the Holy Spirit, The Lord and giver of life, who proceeds from the Father and together with the Father and the Son, He is adored and glorified."

14kt Rolled Gold Earring Gallery

Ronaldo has created many earrings that have to be designed to compliment his other creations. Some of these intricate designs and patterns are incorporated with precious and semi-precious stones. Others are done in hoops, dangle, stone setting and "J" styles with French wire, ancient post, and post with locking ear nut, jackets. All these styles are design to be beautiful, lightweight and complimentary to the wearer.

Earrings are the favorite piece of jewelry of most women. Earrings are able to bring out that natural glow in a woman's skin and are the perfect compliment to her clothing and other jewelry. In recent survey we took, 97% of all the women responded, when asked said "You can't have too many pair of earrings".

Certificate of Authenticity

Sample

Ronaldo's creative vision has captivated fans and collectors worldwide. His distinctive artistry and unique talent to custom design and bring these original works of art to you is unsurpassed. This beautiful and unique art form dates to over 5000 years ago to the time of the Phoenicians. Ronaldo has revived these ancient-handcrafting techniques, and is the world's preeminent artisan using the same jewelry making methods that the Phoenician's did thousands of years ago.

This one of a kind collectors piece is a work of art that is certain to become an heirloom of tomorrow, and has been hand crafted by Ronaldo, from the first twist to the last turn, using only his creativity, his hands, and a few small hand tools.

Bracelets

The Master Artist and Designer "Ronaldo" has handcrafted all the Bracelets found in the following Gallery.

Only his years of study and his understanding of the Art allows him to work in such intricate detail with solid 14kt Gold and Platinum. No other Artist can do so in this medium. 14kt Gold and Platinum are on a different level of difficulty than other softer materials. It took Ronaldo Thousands of hours to acquire the skill it takes to work in Solid 14kt Gold and Platinum. Each piece is made entirely by hand with the aid of only a few hand tools. No molds or machining is involved. Due to the weaving process having hundreds of bends and turns, many experts have said making these bracelets out of 14kt Solid Gold and Platinum would be impossible. Ronaldo has proved them wrong. His skill level has risen to this occasion. Take a close look at the intricate detail and complicated patterns of each Bracelet. These are truly the most intricate and complex pieces in this medium you will find in the world.

Semiprecious Stone Samples

Note that the samples below are just samples. Ronaldo uses all natural stones in our work therefore all the stones are different. We feel that these samples are a good representation of these stones, Although the stones can vary in shade, in pigment color and in grain.
See cleaning instructions for care of all your jewelry

Stone Photo	Name of Stone	Description
	Adventurine	Known as Adventurine or Chinese jade. Expensive Adventurine has pigments of a darker tint. It is used in China to carve Buddha's due to their religious respect for the stone. Jade is known as the DREAM stone.
	Amber	Fossilized tree sap that is yellow in nature. The best is from the Baltic region of the former USSR.
	Amethyst	Purple in color, the darker the color the more value it retains. The richest mines in the world are in Africa. Over 6ct faceted without inclusions is very rare.
	Azurite Malachite	Has a natural combination of beautiful greens and blues. It is one of the more expensive semi precious stones.
	Black Onyx	Black in color. It has been used for thousands of years for making jewelry. One of the most popular stones.
	Bleached Mother of Pearl	It comes from the bleaching process of mother of pearl. It is bleached to clarify the white and to remove the yellowish tint.
	Bloodstone	Deep green with red veins. In the jasper family and good pieces of this stone are extremely rare.

	Blue Gold Stone	This is a man made stone. This is one of the few stones that we use that are man made. Dark Blue in color with specks of gold.
	Blue Lace Agate	It is classified as Palest blue in color. It takes 50,000 years for mother earth to make a ½ inch vein of this wonderful stone.
	Botswana Agate	It is a transparent brown and cream color of which no two stones look alike. It is considered a prize stone.
	Brown Gold Stone	This is a man made stone. This is one of the few stones that we use that are man made. Brown in color with specks of gold. Usually found without veins. This great example has two dark brown veins.
	Carnelian	This stone has red hues that are even throughout.
	Chrysocolla	Its colors include greens, whites, aquas, blacks, browns etc. this is one of the most beautiful stones.
	Fancy Jasper	Fancy Jasper comes in many colors and textures. It is formed under massive heat and pressure.
	Hematite	Hematite is a steel gray in color. It is a mineral. Found mainly in Russia.

	Dark Jade	Dark in pigment uniform throughout. It is found in quantity in the United States.
	Jade	Known as Adventurine or Chinese jade. Expensive Adventurine has pigments of a darker tint. It is used in China to carve Buddha's due to their religious respect for the stone. Jade is known as the DREAM stone
	Lapis	Lapis is deep blue in color with veins containing Iron Pyrite deposits.
	Lavender Quartz	Lavender in color with palest blue veins.
	Leopard Skin Jasper	Black with orange and tan spots. No two are alike.
	Malachite	Green with dark green bands. It is formed under extreme heat and pressure. It takes over 50000 years to form $\frac{1}{2}$ " of this stone.
	Mixed Agate Fancy Jasper	Fancy Jasper comes in many colors and textures. It is formed under massive heat and pressure
	Natural Mother of Pearl	This is Mother of Pearl in its natural state. It has a sandy color with striking shimmering veins.

	Pink Jasper	Translucent pink in color.
	Pink Rhyolite	Mauve in color with veins of lighter and darker shades.
	Red Jasper	Consistent red orange in color.
	Sodalite	Outstanding mixture of blues and veins of gray. Rare.
	Tiger's Eye	One of the most popular stones in the jewelry industry. Goldish brown in color with shimmering veins of darker browns.
	Tree Agate	Green with white spots. No two are alike.
	Turquoise	Very popular in southwest U.S. jewelry industry. Comes in many colors from deep blues to bright blues and greens.
	Unakite	It is Mauve and green in color. No two are alike. It is a sedimentary rock.

	Yellow Jasper	Color ranges from soft to dark yellow.
	Zebra Agate	Olive green with black, white and tan veins. No two are alike.

Personalized Heirlooms

This is a service that everyone loves. It gets them involved in the creative process. When they receive their one of a kind piece it will become an heirloom that they will treasure for years to come.

Perhaps your customer has a cameo from their beloved grandmother or an arrowhead that they found on a sunny day at the lake with their grandfather. Maybe a coin that has a special meaning to them. Whatever the article, Ronaldo wants to help your customer preserve their memento and turn it into a treasured heirloom.

After Ronaldo Creates this Artist Original for your customer, they will receive along with their piece, a photograph of the piece that has been signed and dated by the Artist.

The Ronaldo Collection™

Tomorrow's Heirlooms, created by Ronaldo . . .

This antique porcelain piece was found by one of our customers while browsing through a vendor's collection at a local arts and craft fair. The piece reminded her of her mother, and she has kept it in her collection of antique jewelry for years. She decided to enhance its beauty by having it transformed into an heirloom that she could one day hand down to her children. She wrote the story for her piece, and named it after her mother. The pieces' name is "Fernina".

"Creating tomorrow's Heirlooms with Ronaldo"

- Create your heirloom with Ronaldo's stone setting service.
- Use your own stone, coin, arrowhead, or choose from Ronaldo's vast supply of gemstones, cameos, cabochons or pearls.
- Client has the opportunity to name and write a story about their treasured piece.
- Each Ronaldo Original comes with a Certificate of Authenticity, dated and signed by Ronaldo
- The Ronaldo original created will be registered in our national database of Artist Originals.

Creating tomorrow's heirlooms has always been a passion for Ronaldo. His artistic style has been in demand for years, and now his unique stone setting service is available to you and your clients. The client will be able to write a story and name the work of art, something that is unheard of in the artistic community. The market for this service is virtually untouched, and your clientele will love the opportunity to have their treasured pieces set, named, and archived for future generations.

Sample

Every year, for many years, I have attended Court Days in Mt. Sterling, Kentucky. About three years ago, as I walked among the arts and crafts, I came upon these two beautiful pieces among a collection of antique jewelry a vendor was selling. They were unique and beautiful and I had to have them. Since that time, they have remained among my collection of antique jewelry, until I decided to enhance their beauty by having them custom wrapped by Ronaldo. Their pictures have been placed here for everyone to appreciate as they pass this way.

Look at this great assortment of stacked bracelets. Once you get 1 your are hooked.

Second from the bottom is Andrea. Our most popular behind the Family Bracelet. 2 tone and custom fit to each person.
